FIRE RETARDANT AIR FILTERS

RYCO AIR FILTERS & CABIN AIR FILTERS WITH FIRE RETARDANT MEDIA

FIRE RETARDANT AIR FILTERS

Ryco Fire Retardant Air & Cabin Filters prevent potentially flammable air filters from igniting after contact with hot embers, sparks or cigarette butts that may have been sucked in through the air intake.

Ryco Fire Retardant Air & Cabin Filters inhibit combustion when exposed to embers, sparks or fire. When the media is exposed to a flame the media will self-extinguish on removal of the flame, blackening the media but unable to sustain ignition or smouldering.

They are ideal for a range of support vehicles where there is a risk of exposure to ignition sources in bush fire zones.

PROTECTS THE VEHICLE AIR FILTER FROM FIRE

International Standard: DIN 53438. Ryco Air & Cabin Filters are tested to and comply with international test standard DIN 53438, Class F1.

The media is impregnated with non-toxic fire retardant resin to reduce the ability of the media to support combustion.

High efficiency air filter that does not compromise flow or dust holding capacity ratings.

Ryco recommends Ryco Air Filters are replaced once a year or every 25,000 km, and Cabin Air Filters every 15,000 km or after exposure to a fire.
